Wastercreen, May 16: - For the interest of inaugurating an early compaign, which of the bitternet waged in many years, every effort is being much to force an adjournment of Congress as soon as possible. From present indications geteway day will not one much before fully I. Topplet weather may prompt the lawmatters to put up the shutters the third week in June, but a lively serimmage promises to develop in the Ser ato over Panema Canal legislation, and there are predictions that consideration of the question as to the type of waterway to he constructed will commiss at least a

Of the foneton combe mapply hills eleven have been passer! by the Horise and three by the Senate. in addition to this routing business and the eanal question there remains for disposal the Free Alco-hol and Fure Food hills and several other measures of importance. For these reasons the opinion prevails that Congress will not adjourn before July 1, and there is a probability that the session may extend beyond the first week of that month.

While the Republicans have a majority in the present House in excess of one hundred members and are therefore reasonably certain of retaining control in the Sixtieth Congress they intend not to take anything for granted. There are signs of discontent in a number of Republican strongholds, and dozens of members who were swept into office by the momentum of the Roosevelt tidal wave in 1904 are expected to fall by the wayside in November. James S. Sherman of New York and James M. Griggs of Georgia, chairmen, respectively, of the Republican and the Democratic Congress committees, are girding up their loins for the coming battle. Already the Democratic manager has opened headquarters in Washington. Western headquarters will be established later in Chicago. Chairman Sherman is making ready for the fray, but will not get down to real business until Congress adjourns. Then headquarters will be opened in New York and a decision will be reached as to whether the Western campaign shall be managed from Chicago. The chances are that this will be decided in the affirmative, and Vice-Chairman Tawney, who is familiar with conditions in the West, will be placed on guard there.

The Republican managers are in an eptimistic frame of mind, but they will enter this campaign prepared to battle for their political lives. President Roosevelt wants a Republican House in the two closing years of his administration and Chairman Sherman and his lieutenants will do all they can to see that his desire is gratified.

With the possible exception of Massachusetts, the Republicans are not apprehensive over conditions in the East. In the old Bay State the tom-toms have been beaten on tariff revision and reciprocity for several years and Massachusetts Republicans in the House are fearful that they may have to pay the penalty of defeat for the failure of the party in Congress to pay heed to the sentiment for tariff revision. The people of Massachusetts will be treated to a feast of oratory this year. The most finished spellbinders of both parties will tour the State, and Massachusetts will be the most fiercely debated ground probably of any Commonwealth in the Union.

Republicans are just a little concerned over conditions in a number of Western States that are really strongholds of the dominant party. Michigan, for example, has twelve Republican Representatives in the present House. There are no issues of a national character that promise results for the Democrats in that State.

But there is one thing that worries us a little." said a Congressman from Michigan, who declined to permit the use of his name. There is a wave of sentiment against possism and machine politics, and naturally it is directed against the dominant party. it is directed against the dominant party.
We have no factional troubles such as exist in Iowa and Wisconsin, and the talk about bosses and machines is not warranted by the facts. I am of the opinion that the twelve Republicans that comprise our delegation in the House will be returned, but there is a possibility of a surprise."

In Wisconsin Senator Robert M. La Folletta will give his bleanial performance of lette will give his blennial performance of running anuck. For some years he has been after the scalp of Representative Joseph W. Babcock, former chairman of Joseph W. Babcock, former chairman of the Republican Congress campaign com-mittee. His pursuit of Mr. Babcock will be keener this year than ever-before. Two years ago La Follette threw his forces to the support of Babcock's Democratic op-ponent, and he will probably do likewise in the coming campaign. La Follette also has it in for other Republican Representa-tives from his State, and if he cannot beat them at the primaries he will not hesitate it at the polls.

Gubernatorial situation may get

The Gubernatorial situation may get so intermixed as to imperil the chances of three or four Republican Representatives from Wisconsin in the House. There has been a sloughing off in La Follette's forces during the last year. Men who have responded to the crack of his whip for a long time have deserted him, and the chairman of his State committee, W. D. Connor, who gave of his means and time to the La Follette campaign in 1904, has come who gave of his means and time to the La Follette campaign in 1904, has come out for the nomination for Governor in opposition to the wishes of Mr. La Follette. The Republicans in Wisconsin are in a tangle, and just at this time they don't know "where they are at."

The Republican campaign committee will do a whole lot of work in Michigan and Wisconsin this fall.

South Dakota has two Republican Representatives in Congress. There was a mighty

The fight was between the so called insurgents, led by Senator Camble, and the insurgents. insurgents, led by Senator Gambie, and the regulars, led by Senator Kittredge. county conventions this week, which in turn will name the delegates to the State

This year Senator Gamble wants the State convention's indorsement of his candidacy for reelection. His term will expire on March 3, 1907. His opponent is Representative Eben W. Martin, author of the resolution under which the Commissioner of Corporations investigated the beef trust. Both sides are claiming a victory in the of Corporations investigated the beef trust. Both sides are claiming a victory in the caucuses, and the result will be in doubt until the county conventions have been held. If the regulars win the insurgents may bolt the State convention. He intimated that the Democrats might carry two or three Congress districts in his State. The Republicans are not worrying over Minnesota. Neither do conditions in Ohio, Indiana or Illinois give any concern. In the first named State John M. this year, they will put up an aggressive exception in those States and at the same time invade some Democratic strongholds. The Republicans broke into the solid South two years ago when Possident Rossavelt carried Missouri and the Republicans gained carried Missouri and the Republicans gained eight Congress districts and a United States senatorship in that old time stronghold of Democracy. This year there is an excellent prospect of another successful invasion of the solid South, this time in Tennessee, where recent political developments have made it not only possible, but highly probable, that the Republicans will elect a Covernor, capture three or four Congress districts and possibly elect a Republican Legislature that will send a Republican instead lature that will send a Republican instead of "Fidding Rob" Taylor to the United States Senate as the successor of Senator ward W. Carmack.

The factional fight among the Democrats The factional fight among the Democrats of Tennessee dates back of the Carmack-Taylor contest. It came to a head in the election of a successor to former Senator Bate, who died hast spring just after he had been sworn in for a new term. Benton Bate, who died hast spring just after he had been sworn in for a new term. Benton McMillin and Taylor announced their candidacy for Bate's Senatorial toga, but James M. Frazier, then Governor, carried off the prize before they realized just what had happened. This was the result of a deal between Frazier and John I. Cox, who was then Speaker of the State Senate, and who under the Tennessee Constitution succeeded to the Governorship when Frazier want to the United States Senate. Compliwent to the United States Senate. Compli-cations followed, resulting in bitter strife among the Democrats, and there is a probamong the Democrats, and there is a probability that two State conventions will be held, resulting in the nomination of the two Democratic State tickets. If this is the outcome it is certain that there will be two Democratic candidates for Congress in every district and two Democratic candidates in every legislative district, which would mean, in all probability, a sweeping Republican victory in Tennessee.

Both Congress campaign managers will Both Congress campaign managers will probably have to worry along short of funds this year. The insurance disclosures undoubtedly scared some of the contributors, who will probably be chary in the future about placing money in the hands of political organizations. The Democrate intend to feature tariff revision as an issue. The public ownership question may affect the results in some of the large cities, but this is not expected to assume prominence.

CUBA'S FOURTH ANNIVERSARY. Banquet by Minister Quesada and Speech by Secretary Root.

WASHINGTON, May 20.-The fourth anniversary of the independence of Cuba was celebrated at a banquet given by Minister Quesada at the Cuban Legation to-day. The guests included Secretary Root, Sanator Foraker, Rear Admiral Schley, Brig.-Gen. J. Franklin Bell and the diplomatic representatives of the various American Minister Ouesada in a brief speech told of the services rendered by the United States to Cuba and of the recognition of the republic and what it had done for the island and its people. He spoke especially of the friendship of President Roosevelt and Secretary Root for Cuba. In responding Secretary Root described his visit to Cuba four years ago, when arranging for the transfer of the sovereignty from the military authority of the United States to the new republic. He rec aspersions which had been cast on the intentions of the United States, saying that there never had been a time when the conscience of the American people was not fully resolved that the pledge of independence should be carried out. He recalled the doubts which at that time were heard whether the Cuban Republic would last more than a few months, and expressed the satisfaction of the American people at the success of the Cuban Government and the progress and prosperity of the Cuban

Secretary Root also discussed the coming Pan-American conference at Rio de Janeiro and his prospective visit to South America. Primarily, he said, the visit was to enable him to get better acquainted with these countries, and he hoped that it with these countries, and he hoped that it would result in a better understanding by them of the United States. Secretary Root said that the United States had no desire for one inch of the territory of any of them, and the example of Cuba, he thought, should be taken as evidence of its disinterested policy in desiring to promote better relations with all the Latin-American countries and to help them in their can countries and to help them in their

the delegates.
Señor Bermudez, Chargé d'Affaires of Uruguay, proposed that a message of greeting be sent to the President of the Cuban Republic, and on motion of Senor Tulio Larrinaga, Commissioner of Porto Rico in Congress, a message of congratu-lation was also addressed to President Rosevelt. This action was taken by acclamation and with much enthusiasm. The messages were as follows:

TO PRESIDENT PALMA: We greet President Palina and make vows for the success of the Government this day inaugurated.

To PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT: It was resolved express to you the sentiments of recognition for your noble participation in helping to secure the independence and contributing

More than that, Mr. We threatens to convert every one he can, and says he has already begun on the Empress Downger.

Even the spectacular parformance of Mrs. Hendercon, who last week took all the rare wines in her husband's cellar up to the roof of the famous Henderson egetle in Washington and then poured them down the rain spout into the gutter, pales into nothing before the vision of Wu Tingfang and the Empress Dowager leading T. While the seeds of dietary revolution were sown during Wu Ting-fang's restdence in Washington as Minister, he admits he felt their decisive effect after he had reached his Pokin palace

The fair advocate of temperance gave her views, and she sowed good seed in the Celestial mind. She saw that an impression was being made and she followed up her lead by sending literature concerning the simple life to her distinguished friend after he returned to his native land.

It was these that turned the balance and perhaps won an empire to the temperance cause.

Wu Ting Fang is in Pekin now, but the news of his conversion has reached Phila delphia in a letter written to a prominent attorney of this city. His Excellency

"You may be surprised to hear that I have assumed a new rôle, that of a diet reformer. "The subject was brought to my attention in this way. Some time ago Mrs. Henderson of Washington, D. In it she clearly proves that the eating of flesh, drinking of coffee and tea, as well as of alcohol, not to say smoking of tobacco. are the causes of all the ills that flesh is heir to.

"After reading her book carefully and also other books on similar subjects by doctors and experts I have come to the conclusion that the way we are living is all wrong.

Not only were the two others in the balloon able to follow its descent toward the earth, but they were even able to see the neck of the bottle disappear beneath the water. Another observation was that there was a considerable diminution of pressure on the organs of vision. At a high altitude the pupils seem to distend, and the sensibility of the optic perve is considerably increased.

"I think there may be a wide field for the treatment of certain diseases of the eve f it is carried out at a very high altitude. At present there are three diseases in which medical science is practically powerless, glaucoma, choroiditis and the unfastening or loosening of the retina. In the treatment of chorei fitis certain drops are applied to the eye. I think if they were applied at a very high altitude the effect would be astonishing.

"Definite results of the experiments thus far show that at a great altitude the tension of the eye is greatly increased. The arterial circulation in the retina is much more rapid, which is of the highest importance in the treatment of paralysis of

Telegrams of inquiry have been received at the Vatican from many different places throughout the world. Cardinal Merry del Val, Papal Secretary of State, has sent reassuring news to the nunciatures and Papal delegations. LONDON, May 21 .- The Rome correspondents generally agree that the Pope, though still in bed, is better and that his condition is not alarming; but the correspondent of the Chronicle says that within the inner circle of the Papal Court it is no secret that the Pope is suffering from an attack of angina, to which he has long been subject. Quite recently an eminent prelate of the Pope's own household expressed the anxiety of the Pontiff's immediate friends on this score.

Moreover it is not uncommon at fashionable ecclesiastical reunions to hear fears expressed that the days of the present pontificate are numbered. No one who has seen the Pope, particularly during the last twelve months, can have failed to have been struck by the evidences of the rapid encroachment of old age. His characteristic weariness is intensified.

Moreover, what is not so generally known is that the Pope is profoundly afflicted by the systematic boycott to which he is actually subjected by a very great majority of the Cardinals resident in Rome, who altobether disapprove of his policy, manners and method. They never darken his dwelling or that of the still more abhorred Cardinal Secretary of State except when they are obliged to by strict duty. A well known papal dignitary said a few days ago in the court yard of the Vatican:

"I was just musing on the change that has come over this place since the days of Leo XIII. and on the then constant flow of Cardinals, diplomats and great people of every sort, and now to think of the sac abandonment in which this good hearted but weak minded Pontiff is left. the understood that these marriages are simply religious, and not consummat dutil the attainment of physical development. But the knowledge of a child that a certain other child is his wife, let us are a say unhealthy influence in his mind further, it leads to the cell of for early parenthood, the tendency being to have on the age of parenthood. This, in turn believe, has, with the climate, brought about the shnormally early maturity of the Hindu. When I say that there should be no marriage before the age of 12 years think that is not much of a reform. But you must remember that the Indian matures early, and that under the old system children age often married before they are born.

After the conclusion of his speech the Maharanja, with the Maharanee, shook hands with the guests.

A Great Magazine

With Teague's complete exposure of the sneaking Bucket-Shop thieves; with the first really vivid story of the San Francisco disaster, and Bailey's beautiful pencil sketches of the city finished only a few days before the catastrophe; with Russell's scathing arraignment of British rule in India; with Eugene Wood's powerfulappeal to the people to protect themselves against Consumption; with Lawson's dramatic and magnificently eloquent fact-story of High Finance and the Courts; with absorbing Fiction-Stories and Pictures of quality; and with its live Departments on current matters-

Everybody s for June is a magazine to buy, read, think over and remember.
